Marking and Feedback Policy

Rushwick Primary School is committed to providing relevant and timely feedback to pupils both orally and in writing, this policy is concerned with ensuring a consistent approach to marking and feedback across the school and to ensure the involvement of children in extending their own learning.

Aims

- Show we value the children's work and motivate them to produce high quality work.
- Raise children's self-esteem and through praise for what they do well and encourage them to raise their aspirations.
- Gauge the children's understanding and identify any misconceptions.
- To demonstrate what the children's strengths are and how they can improve their work in the future through timely and high quality feedback.
- Create an ethos where mistakes are acceptable as long as learning allows children to remedy them.
- Embed opportunities for the child to learn how to assess their own work critically in order to create independence in learning and responsibility their own improvements.
- Embed opportunities for the children to assess each other's work identifying strengths and areas for improvement by which they can reinforce their own learning and learn the art of constructive criticism.
- Create an ongoing conversation between child and adult which will aid progression.
- Create challenging but achievable targets for improvement.
- Provide a basis for summative and formative assessment.
- Provide a basis for lesson planning.
- Establish a consistent approach to marking against specific learning criteria so that children understand how their work is marked.

Principles of Marking and Feedback

The following principles should underpin all marking and feedback:

- It must be manageable
- It should be positive and motivating for children.
- It must be at the child's level of comprehension.
- It may be given verbally.
- It should be given promptly and regularly
- It ought to give recognition to effort and achievement noting improvements made.
- The process should directly engage the child, either orally or through written response.
- It should give clear strategies for improvement focusing on one or two areas at a time which link into the learning objectives or learning targets for the child (which may be cross curricular).
- Time should be given for children to consider marking comments and for them to respond to them.

- It should promote children's self-assessment, linking marking and feedback into the wider process of engaging the child in their own learning.
- It will provide information to the teacher on the success of the teaching and inform planning.

- It will provide information to the teacher regarding pupil progress.
- It can be given by any adult with whom the child is working.
- It can be given by a peer as part of the learning process.
- It must positively affect the child's progress and learning outcomes.

Marking and Feedback Process

Before a piece of work is undertaken, children should be clear about what is going to be assessed when the work is marked. We set out clear learning intentions and success criteria, which enables the adults and pupils to mark effectively against the success criteria.

Teachers are engaged in on-going assessment throughout lessons and will intervene whenever children need redirecting, either as individuals or as a group.

Teacher Marking

The main forms of marking and feedback which will be used are as follows:

1. Verbal Feedback from an adult

- Direct contact with the child and discussion of the work is particularly appropriate with younger, less able or less confident children.
- Where verbal comments are given a record, with letters 'TT', should be made in the book as a permanent reminder for the child and teacher.
- If a child has been prompted or redirected as a result of assessment in the lesson a record, with the letters 'TT', should be made.
- Feedback may be given through plenary / mini plenary processes.

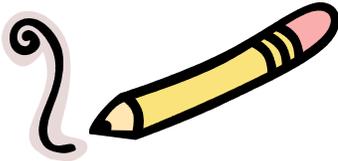

2. Written Marking

It is expected that teachers will adhere to the following:

- All children's work must be marked before the next relevant lesson
- All English and Mathematics books must be marked daily
- Marking must relate to Learning objective and/or Success Criteria
- Children should respond to comments/ examples.
- Marking must be in pen and use appropriate symbols (see below).
- Success criteria sheets to be used where appropriate.

Monitoring

Each term there will be a book scrutiny which will focus on effective marking. This will enable staff to make judgements about the effectiveness of this policy on a regular basis and reflect on the requirements set out by Ofsted (Appendix 1)

Appendix 1

What does Ofsted say about Marking and Feedback?

(Taken from Guidance document published 08/15)

Pupils' work

- Ofsted does not expect to see a particular frequency or quantity of work in pupils' books or folders. Ofsted recognises that the amount of work in books and folders will depend on the subject being studied and the age and ability of the pupils.
- Ofsted recognises that marking and feedback to pupils, both written and oral, are important aspects of assessment. However, Ofsted does not expect to see any specific frequency, type or volume of marking and feedback; these are for the school to decide through its assessment policy. Marking and feedback should be consistent with that policy, which may cater for different subjects and different age groups of pupils in different ways, in order to be effective and efficient in promoting learning.
- While inspectors will consider how written and oral feedback are used to promote learning, Ofsted does not expect to see any written record of oral feedback provided to pupils by teachers.
- If it is necessary for inspectors to identify marking as an area for improvement for a school, they will pay careful attention to the way recommendations are written to ensure that these do not drive unnecessary workload for teachers.

Grade descriptors for the quality of teaching, learning and assessment

Outstanding

- Teachers provide pupils with incisive feedback, in line with the school's assessment policy, about what pupils can do to improve their knowledge, understanding and skills. The pupils use this feedback effectively.
- Pupils are eager to know how to improve their learning. They capitalise on opportunities to use feedback, written or oral, to improve.

Good

- Teachers give pupils feedback in line with the school's assessment policy. Pupils use this feedback well and they know what they need to do to improve.
- Pupils develop the capacity to learn from mistakes and they become keen learners who want to find out more. Most are willing to find out new information to develop, consolidate and deepen their knowledge, understanding and skills, both in lessons and in extra-curricular activities.
- Most pupils commit to improving their work. They are given time to apply their knowledge and understanding in new ways that stretches their thinking in a wide range of subjects, and to practice key skills.

Appendix 2

What Outstanding Marking looks like to Ofsted throughout an Inspection.

Ofsted Grade	Comments, that have been taken from recent Ofsted Inspections
Outstanding	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• A particular strength is the guidance teachers give pupils when marking their books. This makes a significant contribution to pupils' excellent progress because teachers carefully check that their guidance has been followed and has raised the standard of their work.• Marking and assessment are systematic and detailed with the clear school policy followed carefully, leading to consistency in practice and expectation. Teachers' marking provides detailed suggestions for improvement of written work and 'next steps' with time built in for work to be improved or developed.• Marking is thorough and gives pupils clear guidance on how to improve their work. Pupils know their targets for learning and what is expected for them to achieve at different levels
Good	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The school has examples of outstanding marking, where teachers provide pupils with clear advice on how to improve and pupil comments show their understanding of how to improve. However, this practice is patchy across the school and therefore opportunities are missed for all pupils to have this understanding• Teachers give useful feedback to pupils about how they are doing and how they can improve their work. Marking is effective and most pupils are very clear about their learning targets. Pupils are not guided sufficiently to present their work neatly and accurately. The style of handwriting varies considerably across the school.• The quality and regularity of marking has improved, but it is not always challenging enough to move pupils to an even higher level. Teachers write helpful comments, but these do not go far enough to provide extended challenge for the pupils. Too many persistent errors in pupils' work are overlooked.
Requires Improvement	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The marking of pupils' work has improved but is not always rigorous enough. In some classes, teachers provide detailed and helpful comments which explain what pupils need to do to improve. In too many classes, however, basic errors are not corrected and previous learning is not reinforced sufficiently.• Teachers mark pupils' work regularly and frequently, but pupils do not always know enough about their targets. Teachers make detailed comments in their marking, but do not give pupils sufficient planned opportunities to respond with written replies or follow up on the guidance on how to improve their work.• Some teachers' marking shows pupils how to improve their work; the quality is variable. However, it is inconsistent, as some marking does not provide clear guidance. Pupils are increasingly involved in checking their own progress. However, pupils are not always given time to respond to teachers comments in their books
